

UNIVERSITY OF PARDUBICE, Faculty of Economics and Administration

Is seeking 1 researcher for the position of a

SPECIALIST IN DIGITAL ECONOMICS - POSTDOC

Research area:

Digital economics

Job description:

The postdoc will join the research programme of the Faculty of Economics and Administration and will cooperate with the faculty's team on using Petri nets, agents or system dynamic methods to model relationships and connections within a selected area of digital economics considering the elements of information and communication technologies and cyber security. To process data, the postdoc will use methods of artificial intelligence. He/she will analyse the results and together with his/her mentor, he/she will publish them in impact journals abroad and present them at international conferences.

The Postdoc will gradually proceed through the Institute of Economic Sciences, Institute of Business Economics and Management and Institute of System Engineering and Informatics.

The Postdoc will be obliged to organise a seminar/workshop for his/her colleagues or other scholars on research achievements, experience from abroad, possibilities of cooperation etc.

Goals and expected contribution:

The goal is to utilise experience and research potential of a postdoc from abroad in the sphere of digital economics related to information and communication technologies and cyber security. Experience gained during the postdoc's stay, will be utilised in the educational, research and publication activities of the faculty. Large contribution rests in the development of new cooperation, knowledge transfer and transfer of research methods in digital economics.
